Some in-text citation essentials:

- When citing your sources in-text use the author’s last name and the page number. Be sure to leave a space between the author and page number.
  e.g. (author page number)
- When referring to the author’s name while quoting or paraphrasing, it is only necessary to follow the author’s name with the page number.
  Example: Smith (95) argues that “making reference lists is fun…”

Common Examples:

Book by one author: (Full Citation):

In-text Citation: (Rowling)

Book by two authors: (Full Citation):

In-text Citation: (Leavitt and Dubner 28)

Book by Four or More Authors: (Full Citation):
(MLA allows the use of et al. (and others) when there are more than three authors. Listing all authors is also acceptable.)

OR

In-text Citation: (Pressley, et al. 83) OR (Pressley, Allington, Wharton-McDonald, Block, and Morrow 83)

Note: If you choose to list all of the author’s names, keep them in the order in which they appear on your works cited page
Magazine article with no author given: (Full Citation):

In-text Citation: (“Goodbye to the Godfather” 3) OR (“Goodbye Godfather” 3)

Note: For longer titles, it is acceptable to abbreviate the titles by shortening them to two or three words

Work by a corporate author: (Full Citation):

In-text Citation: (National Commission on Terrorist 27-29)

Journal Articles

Online Journal: (Full Citation):

In-text Citation: (Schneider and Hood 42)

Print Journal: (Full Citation):

In-text Citation: (Merry 43)

Company Website: (Full Citation):

In-text Citation: ("Investing in America's")

Note: If the webpage document provides a page number then be sure to include it in your citation.

Didn’t find an example that fits your needs? See the MLA Handbook for additional examples and explanatory information. Available in the library’s reference collection (call number: REF LB 2369 .G53 2009)

Additional examples are also available on our website at: <http://www.ccac.edu/library>